DataSetGo Celebrates Earth Day as an Environmentally Certified Sustainable Business!

DataSetGo (<https://datasetgo.llc/>), a Marco Island, Florida software company that creates customized solutions with enterprise-level features yet designed and priced to serve and scale with entry-level businesses, is excited to celebrate Earth Day 2022 as an environmentally certified sustainable business and invites your company to join us in our effort to protect the environment while we grow our businesses!

Earlier this year, DataSetGo attained the Edenark Group ISO 14001 Environmental Sustainability Certification, which will help the company define how it interacts internally, externally, and with the environment.

The certification incorporates energy/waste/water, employee health and performance enhancement, community involvement, procurement and suppliers, compliance and regulations, emergency/security, and stakeholder engagement.

“Serving people and protecting our community is at the core of the DataSetGo culture. On Earth Day 2022 we were able, as a company, to say, ‘We are walking the talk’,” said Jessica Anne Clarke, CEO of DataSetGo.

“We are already working with other organizations that have the same core beliefs. We sell our services via WholeSale Payroll, which is also certified sustainable (<https://edenark.com/another-prep-for-earth-day-wholesale-payroll-has-become-an-environmentally-certified-sustainable-company/>) and they sell their services to, among others, TruPayroll, which is also certified sustainable (<https://edenark.com/trupayroll-has-become-an-environmentally-certified-sustainable-business/>). It is wonderful to work with organizations that believe as you do: that protecting the environment and running a successful company are not mutually exclusive. In point of fact, our performance has improved after becoming environmentally certified sustainable,” added Murray.
